

Department Influence On CMO Selection

When it comes to CMO selection, Executive Management and Manufacturing/Production hold the most influence over the decision, each accounting for ~20% of control. While the departments below all have influence into the decision, on average about half of the influence over the decision is held by just three departments.

